If Jaworski's personal participation in and funding of clandestine CIA activities within the United States would seem to have impelled that he not accept the post of Special Watergate Prosecutor because of the actual and reported CIA involvements in it, his position is far from unique. Nixon's lawyer, James St. Clair, is of the prestigeous Boston firm Hale and Dorr. Writing in the John Birch Society monthly, American Opinion (5/74), Medford Evans casts Hale and Dorr partner Paul F. Helmuth in precisely the same role, clandestine CIA funding. But in this, Evans fails to disclose that he enjoys similar cimplications. He married the sister of William Buckley, right-wing intellectual who is the close friend of E. Howard Hunt, Nixon's chief spook in residence and was a CIA agent under Hunt in the Mexico City ~~office~~ station.
